Whether you use an intranet, social accounts, or the printout on the bulletin board, find a way to tell your story using a narrative. Blog style posts are nice clean ways to accomplish this. Use the following question prompts to guide you through developing your blog post.

What is your headline or title?

Who was involved?

What happened that is worth noting?

What goals or objectives were affected?

How did this impact the team, company, or community?

What about this was inspiring to you?

What is your call to action and encouragement to others?
